

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus and method for using a wearable computer in testing applications that uses a probe, a display, an audio communication device, a computer adapted to receive data from the probe, exchange data with the display, exchange data with the audio communications device, and exchange data using wireless communication, a battery, and a 5 harness for securing the probe, display, computer, and battery to a person's body.